Performed by the Ligeti Quartet

New works for string quartet by composers of the CCCT as tributes to Cornelius in this his 85th anniversary year, which is also 40 years since his untimely death. Cardew was well-known as being at the forefront of expanding the boundaries of music-making in Britain and internationally, and then taking this quality into music which was inspired by the modern enlightenment movement

The concert, organised by the CCCT in association with Morley College and the Ligeti Quartet, celebrates how Cornelius Cardew linked his music with the struggle to open the door to progress, music of the New. The composers have written this new music inspired by his example.

Jonathan Case: Protest Song for String Quartet • Michael Chant: A Backward Glance •
Rob Cooper: Navigators: a journey • Alison Doubleday: Personality •
Elif Nur Karlidag: Naat • Jane Serter: Frames Within Frames •
Hugh Shrapnel: Breathing Life • Patrice Tournier: Resisting Stop Resisting

We also remember James Allen, secretary of the CCCT until his death in January 2012.
